dwp Appoints New Regional Managing Director

Industry Expert & New dwp Regional Managing Director, Robert Troup, Sets Sights on North Asia

The world-class architecture and interior design firm dwp has recently appointed a new Regional Managing Director. Currently located in the dwp UAE office, in Dubai, Robert will shortly head to the Shanghai-based dwp China office, to shore up and enhance business development within the entire region for the dwp group.

dwp has long shown its commitment to Hong Kong and Greater China, through their offices there, and now sets its sights on further expansion and development in this vast region. After spending a short time in the dwp Thailand office, moving onto the Dubai operations, establishing his presence within the group, Robert is now poised to take on North Asia, to assure market leadership, committed to business development, with a hands-on, proactive and personal approach to clients.

“I am very proud to be appointed by dwp as Regional Managing Director for this exciting territory. dwp has international expertise, combined with local strength, resources and talent, ensuring the highest levels of quality and service. With two successful, vibrant dwp design studios in the region, we have a growing portfolio of visionary and innovative projects, showcasing the talents of our international architects and interior designers. I look forward with great enthusiasm, to working with our dynamic teams to develop and expand our business across the region.” Robert Troup announced.

dwp is rapidly multiplying their North Asia-based projects and clientele, and will benefit enormously from Robert’s over 25 years’ experience in the industry, throughout Asia, the Middle East and the UK. A registered architect and member of the RIBA, Robert is highly experienced in all aspects of developing, directing and managing a top-tier design firm, having led numerous major projects, including mixed-use, commercial and residential property, hotels, transport, education and civic buildings, as project director for the lead-consultant. His approach is based upon successful teamwork and promoting productive, client-focused relationships between clients, designers and contractors. Combining innovative design with commercial realities, he is adept at communicating how excellence in design maximises value for the client. As regional managing director, Robert is responsible for overall operations, development and expansion of the business.

dwp CEO, Brenton Mauriello, was quoted as saying, “With open arms, we warmly welcome Robert, as a highly experienced, efficient and talented individual to our team. He is a recognised expert in our industry and will be a key contributor to the continued success of dwp, as we further our expansion plans and gain more ground, particularly with the North Asian and Middle East regions.”

dwp has a total of 12 offices worldwide, including Australia, Bahrain, China, Hong Kong, India, Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand, UAE and Vietnam.
