dwp | design worldwide partnership winning streak continues with Best Office design in Perspective Awards 2011

dwp won the award for Best Office design in the Perspective Awards 2011, celebrating excellence in architecture, interiors and product design...

The Perspective Awards 2011 announced the winners in a gala awards ceremony held on Thursday 10th November 2011, at The Mira Hotel, Hong Kong, recognising outstanding architecture, interiors and product design projects, firms and designers. Among the steep competition, dwp | design worldwide partnership won Best Office category for the SCB HQ Offices & Training Centre, Bangkok, Thailand.

“On behalf of our team at dwp, I am delighted at winning this award. We truly appreciate being recognised for our work, by the Perspective Awards 2011 esteemed judging panel,” enthused dwp group CEO, Brenton Mauriello, “dwp designed the new 20,000sqm corporate offices and training centre of SCB – the largest and oldest bank in Thailand.”

SCB HQ Offices & Training Centre, Bangkok, Thailand

The original buildings SCB were to occupy were classic 1970’s design, with unique hexagonal floor plates. The intent was to soften the edges in all areas around the core, in order to generate more fluid spaces for SCB. dwp continued the architectural design detail through the project, including the areas for break-out meetings. Located around the core each floor provides dual break-out areas, designed to be open and directly connected to the equally open working environment. The glass edges are curved and banquet seating was created to fit around the curved edges, resulting in a classic approach that also softens the primary circulation, throughout the floor plate. In addition, the installed vertical garden gives staff visual camouflage and adds character to the generic floor plate.
