dwp | design worldwide partnership wins ‘Best International Leisure Interior’ at International Property Awards 2012-2013

dwp | design worldwide partnership proudly received the International Property Awards 2012-2013, recently held in London UK, for Best International Leisure Interior, with their design for Chill Restaurant & Skybar, further solidifying their status as a world-class architecture and interior design firm.

With currently 12 offices in 10 countries, dwp has once again been recognised for their design work, this time for Ho Chi Minh City’s hottest spot for wining and dining – Chill Restaurant & Skybar. This is the second International Property Award for Chill, this year, as it makes a bold statement on the leisure scene in Vietnam.

“We, at dwp, are thrilled to have won this prestigious award and have our design work recognised in this manner on an international scale. It is a design that we are incredibly proud of,” noted Desmond Harty Spencer, MD for dwp Vietnam.

The International Property Awards, in association with the Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors (RICS) and Yamaha, is the largest property competition across the globe with over 2,000 companies from 88 countries participating this year. Having already competed at country level throughout the regional stages of the International Property Awards, top scoring developers, architects, estate agents and interior designers, from across the globe, gathered at the J.W. Marriott, Grosvenor House Hotel, Park Lane, London on Friday 7th December, for the announcement of the ultimate World’s Best winners.

Chill Skybar & Restaurant is an outstandingly chic new landmark design establishment, setting the benchmark for the region in rooftop wining and dining. Juxtaposed from the streamlined, robust character of the office building, upon which it perches, this venue works come rain or shine and enhances the enjoyment of all sensual pleasures with its curvaceous, fluid, urban drama. The space created was not envisaged at being too trendy, but rather timeless, evoking a style that people will come back to time and again.

President of the International Property Awards, Stuart Shield, says, “The International award winners deserve great praise for their achievements. They have competed against each other and outshone all the other nominees. The skills that they have demonstrated demand attention on a world stage.”
